Teacher salary gripes alter school calendar

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County School Board approved a revised 1980-81 school calendar at a recess meeting Friday morning. The new calendar calls for beginning the school year August 18.

Two Hancock North Central teachers had appeared at a regular meeting of the school board Monday night voicing objections to the calendar as proposed by Superintendent Billy Sills which would have begun the school year after Labor Day.

At that time, the board took Sills' proposed calendar and the teachers' objections under advisement.

Sills said Monday he attempted to coordinate the district's calendar with those of other schools in this area.

"St. Stanislaus has some extra holidays so there is no way to coordinate with their schedule," the superintendent noted.

"We're trying to have a closer knit holiday schedule with special consideration for the Pearl River Vo-Tech Center's schedule," Sills explained further.

Sandra Gray, a HNC Junior High teacher, asked to address the board regarding the calendar.

However, School Board President

Woodrow Ladner would not let Ms. Gray comment until after completion of prepared agenda.

Later during the meeting Ms. Gray stated, "If you set next year's beginning date after Labor Day a lot of our teachers will be in a bad financial position."

"Is it my understanding we would not

Oris Lander presses for coach contracts

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Oris Ladner, Hancock County School Board member, twice called for the rehiring of Hancock North Central Basketball Coach Roland Ladner and Football Coach Irvin Favre at a regular board meeting Monday night.

Oris Ladner previously offered a motion to rehire the HNC coaches at a school board meeting last month.

The school board has not officially denied or accepted reinstatement of the coaches following a recent recommendation by HNC High School Principal Thad Haskins not to rehire the two men.

However, an attorney representing the coaches told board members at a recent meeting that Irvin Favre and

Roland Ladner were automatically rehired because no action was taken by the board within a specified time

Official groundbreaking June 6

Borg-Warner site preparation begins

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Project Manager R.T. Perkins of Jacob's Engineering Group in charge of Borg-Warner's new Hancock County plant construction, announced Thursday night site preparation crews will be moving in to the Port Bienville Industrial Park site Monday.

Perkins appeared at a regular meeting of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

Groundbreaking for the new plant is slated for June 6.

The project manager reported Mid-Gulf Co. of Norco, La. has been sub-contracted to prepare the site which will be fenced July 1, then his company will begin foundation work July 15.

"We have 30 percent of the plant's engineering work done," Perkins added.

"We will hire 200-250 personnel by the time we peak construction in the field. We will construct the plant in two phases," Perkins stated.

"What is termed the R.N. Section will be the first phase and the G.N. Section will be the second phase," the site manager said.

Perkins said a plastic pellet is to be made in the first phase and in the second phase two substances will be compounded in an extruder.

"This plant has the capability of making 2,300 different colors of plastics. The second phase makes an A.B.S. pellet," the site manager added.

"Most of the raw materials Borg-Warner will ship in will be in rubbery, pellet form, coming in by rail car as well as barges," Perkins explained.

"Borg-Warner has a very unique process and we are involved in a very secret process. The information on the process is guarded by Borg-Warner," Perkins said.

"The Borg-Warner plant is set on an 18.5 foot elevation based on outfall lines on the railroad and roadway, but the entire plant will not be 18.5 feet," Perkins stated.

"Borg-Warner instructed us to save all the trees we can, and their intention is to save most of the trees on the waterfront," Perkins reported.

W. Wilson Webre, Port and Harbor Commission director reported, "Borg-Warner was concerned about another easement for a rail spur, but as long as the spur is in the 300-foot right-of-way there are no problems with this...that is why we have that right-of-way."

"They will also lengthen an area of the channel," Webre added.

Perkins explained he works in the Hydrocarbons Division of Jacob's Engineering which is headquartered in Houston, Tex.

"Our main office is in Pasadena, Calif. We have 12 offices in the U.S., one in Ireland and Puerto Rico, and we employ 2,000-2,500 people under five divisions," the site manager reported.

In addition to the Hydrocarbons Division, Jacobs also operates Construction, Mining, Pharmaceutical and Petrochemical Divisions, Perkins explained.

"We frequently subcontract work to other divisions of our company," Perkins said.

Commissioner Dave McDonald asked

Perkins, "Who owns your company?" Perkins replied, "We are listed on the American Stock Exchange as Jacobs Engineering."

"This is our first opportunity to work with Borg-Warner," Perkins said.

"Jacobs was started in 1951 by a Dr. Jacob's who had a consulting company, then in 1963 he merged with a paste company," the site manager explained.

Regarding groundbreaking ceremonies for the new plant Webre reported, "We will be required to provide a few things for the ceremony."

Shroud of Turin lecture set here

Dr. Robert Dinegar, a scientist engaged in a study of the Shroud of Turin, will deliver a talk on that subject at the National Space Technology Laboratories near Bay St. Louis in Building 1200 May 20 at 2 p.m.

The lecture, entitled "A Scientific Study of the Shroud of Turin," is sponsored by the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA) as part of its 1980 Distinguished Lecturer Series, and is open to the public.

The NORDA lecture series generally focuses on some aspect of oceanographic research, but an occasional presentation in the broader area of scientific investigation is included.

Dr. Dinegar, a physical chemist at the Los Alamos, New Mexico, National Scientific Laboratory and an ordained Episcopal priest, has devoted his own time in the past few years to a study of the Shroud.

For centuries the Shroud, an ancient cloth bearing the apparent image of a man with wounds on his body, has been believed by many to be the burial cloth of Christ.

In 1978, Dr. Dinegar was one of a team of 40 scientists from the U.S. who were allowed to make scientific measurements of the cloth.

Known as Operation STURP (Shroud of Turin Research Project), the group concentrated on determining the authenticity of the cloth, how the image may have been impressed on it, and the nature of the deeply-discolored regions associated with the forehead, wrists and feet of the image, which have traditionally been called "bloodstains."

Articles on what the research project has found to date are in the process of publication. Dr. Dinegar, writing in the February 10 issue of "The Living Church," stated that the evidence analyzed so far does not indicate a "hoax" but rather appears to show that the cloth is authentic as far as the "times and places traditionally associated with it."

In his lecture Dr. Dinegar will discuss current conclusions and proposed future studies.

A key element in the scientific study is fixing the date of the cloth material as accurately as possible. Conventional Carbon-14 dating techniques cannot be used because that would destroy a large segment of the cloth.

However, a new Carbon-14 technique has been proposed jointly by the Brookhaven National Laboratory and the University of Rochester which would use only a few milligrams of the cloth.

The new procedure, which in part makes use of an accelerator and mass spectrometer, could provide a reliable date with a deviation of one hundred years. The Archbishop of Turin and the Pontifical Academy of Sciences in Rome are now considering the proposal.

Dr. Dinegar, who holds a Ph.D. in physical chemistry from Columbia University, has published widely in his own field of explosives chemistry.

He is a fellow of the American Institute of Chemists and has the unusual distinction of being listed in both "American Men of Science" and "Who's Who in Religion." He currently serves as associate rector, Trinity on the Hill Church, Los Alamos.

At the lecture, Dr. Dinegar will be introduced by his daughter, Janice Dinegar Boyd, who is an oceanographer at NORDA.

"Bob Hess (public relations representative for Borg-Warner) has worked out details of the groundbreaking ceremony," Webre stated.

"There will be a luncheon for about 30 people at Diamondhead. We are required to provide soft drinks, Portables, chairs, a speaker platform, a sound system and Mobile Medic will be on standby," Webre said.

"I would also like to have some signs made directing people to the site and a page advertisement announcing the groundbreaking," Webre added.

McDonald said, "One thing we lack is knowledge by the general public. A lot of people don't know how to even get to Port Bienville and don't know what's out there."

"One hour, to an hour and 15 minutes before the groundbreaking we ought to have a riding tour of the industries with a narrator," McDonald suggested.

Commissioner Robert Genin added, "Almost anyone could narrate with a little basic knowledge about the industries."

McDonald said, "Hess wants to keep as close as possible to a one-half hour ceremony."

Commissioner J.C. Baxter asked, "Where will the people park?"

Webre replied, "I'm not concerned about parking, were going to have to have the ceremony away from the actual site."

"My concern is that we reach the youth—our high school kids," Webre said.

"I would like to place 20-30 signs to direct people to the plant site," Webre noted.

In reference to the Port Bienville railroad locomotive Borg-Warner is interested in leasing, Webre reported, "Robert Cufidiet of B and L Fabricating, Inc. at Port Bienville estimated it would cost $2,300 to steam clean and paint the engine."

"Last time it was painted was in the early 70's. I intend to have the engine move up and down the park prior to the groundbreaking ceremonies," Webre explained.

Genin suggested, "Why don't you drag some rail cars up and down the track along with it."

McDonald asked, "Would we have to advertise for bids on this work?"

Commission Attorney Gerald Gex

replied, "Yes, for $2,300. Anything over $250 has to be advertised."

McDonald added, "If we have to wait for bids we'll never have it painted for the ceremony."

Webre suggested the contract be divided into three separate parts.

R. T. Perkins

Commission President James DeBlanc said, "Maybe we could do it under separate contracts."

In another Borg-Warner related matter, the commission authorized the transfer of $113,776 from its industrial park revenue fund to a new road fund.

The new road-fund will be used to reroute the Port Bienville Road around the perimeter of the Borg-Warner plant site.

Webre reported, "The funds are coming from the Borg-Warner land sale and is the same amount the Economic Development Administration will allow us to spend for the new road."

"Operations and hospital rooms cost a lot more than you think."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

BY EDMOND FAHEY, III

A doctor can give you a pill for almost any ailment. Aches, pains, disorders can often be relieved but permanent cures rarely result from any pill. Pills at best, bridge a gap in time, from one time to the next. This fact of life is especially true for the thousands of shut-ins in nursing homes, hospitals, state hospitals and bedrooms in many private homes.

They live alone and isolated even while among other people. There is a sad world. Many of these people need more than pills. They desperately need the concern of other people. They need to know they are not alone in their suffering. Cards, letters and flowers are fine but nothing can match a friendly, cheerful personal visit. Through visitation the confined can often strengthen their faith and spirit...If you know some one who is ill, why not extend the kindness of a personal visit- soon? Why procrastinate?...Do it today.

Board President Ladner replied, "Yes."

A school patron commented, "It's always been a policy to have semester exams after Christmas holidays."

Barbara Bryant, a HNC Elementary teacher, said, "If we go into June next year it's extremely hard to keep the kids in school."

Sills said, "You can do whatever you want to do with the schedule."

Harold J. Saucier

Harold J. Saucier, commander, Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, was laid to rest Friday.

Harold, a native of Bay St. Louis, was well known throughout the area for his concern for his fellowman.

Loyalty to the American Legion was utmost in his life, and he will be missed by his comrades.

We have known Harold all of our life and he was always trying to help someone in trouble, even though he might have had personal problems of his own at the time.

We extend our sympathy to his family, many friends and all members of the American Legion.

Bits 'n pieces

When someone hears reassessment, he automatically thinks it's one more way politicians are using to raise our taxes.

In keeping up with the decisions of the courts, we are aware that in Mississippi the Boards of Supervisors, who are the governing agencies in each county, are going to have to see that reassessment is accomplished by the year 1983.

Every year the tax assessor gives the assessment books to the Board of Supervisors for review. After the review and supervisor approval of the assessments, the books are then sent to the state tax commission.

Unless a county has had reassessments made by the year 1983, the state tax commission is not going to accept the county's books.

We know some of you will say, so what! Well it is not that simple because the state tax commission has some powerful leverage in the homestead exemptions.

The state, we are told, will eliminate homestead exemptions in counties not reassessed, and property owners in those places will be paying more taxes.

Since the Chancery Court says we must reassess every county by 1983, we feel the work should begin now.

We were very impressed with Hancock County Tax Assessor Edward (Eddie) Murtagh's proposal made to the supervisors here last Monday.

The proposal is not for the complete job of reassessment, but it is an important step in the correct direction.

If the supervisors wait too long to support Murtagh's efforts to get started, we may have someone from the courts making the reassessments for us, and have to live with their decisions whether we like them or not.

We are very happy with the amount of exposure we are receiving with the Miss USA contestants.

Their visit Wednesday for a photo session on a Waveland pier should get national recognition.

It seems we are really beginning to be noticed as part of the Mississippi Gulf Coast in Hancock County.

This is the time of year when all of the young boys and girls seem to have big smiles on their faces, could it be school is almost out?

We remember how we would look forward to the summer holidays when we were students several years ago - has it been that long?

We would like to caution drivers to please be aware that many of our youth are on bicycles, so drive cautiously.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL - THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

TOWARD BETTER ROADS

Problems relating to the best system of road administration in Mississippi are now new. Numerous studies conducted by or for the State Legislature have pointed out that the current method of maintaining county roads in Mississippi does not provide a maximum return for invested tax dollars.

The studies, going back to 1932, reveal that the best system - where each supervisor has own labor force, equipment budget, and methods of building and maintaining county roads - is fertile ground for inefficiency and wasteful use of tax dollars.

A study conducted by the State Highway Department - "Financial Statistics for Highway Planning, 1977" - shows that the costs-per-mile of maintaining county roads vary greatly from county to county. Even when comparing adjoining counties with similar geographical features, the costs vary as much as 200 percent.

A unit system of administering roads - centralized labor force, equipment, and budget, and methods of building and maintaining county roads - is available to every county government. But, only a few of the 82 counties have such a system in some form.

At a time when local governments need to get the most out of every tax dollar, county road administration has remained virtually unchanged over the past 100 years.

The Mississippi Economic Council believes that we can afford to continue practices which fail to produce a maximum return on the tax dollar. The Council believes that mandatory management of county roads under the unit system would mean more efficient use of tax dollars while improving administration and maintenance of county road programs.

But a mandatory county unit system will not come for at least another year. A bill requiring counties to adopt such a system died in committee during this session.

For now, the only method for changing the present system is public outcry which could be heard all the way to the ballot box.

Soil Stewardship Week, May 11-18

by HARRY PATTERSON
District Conservationist

The conservation of productive soil, water and related resources on the privately-owned lands of the United States, which was never an easy undertaking, is becoming more critical.

In the 45 years since the nationwide conservation program was launched, a great deal has been accomplished. But steady changes in land use and management, the introduction of bigger farm machinery and the evolution of new attitudes toward the land have now compounded the difficulties of the task.

Soil Stewardship, the spirit of responsible man at work on the land, is going to be tested as never before. The dollar cost of applying conservation measures, such as terraces, ponds, pasture planting, waterways, tree planting and maintaining these conservation systems of farming are rising.

Farm sizes are getting smaller. As a result, the love between the farmer and his land is diminishing. Increasingly, farmland is being regarded as a commodity to be bought and sold rather than as a very special and vulnerable resource tied to the landscape.

During the 10 years prior to 1970, an average of nearly 3 million acres of rural land were converted each year to urban uses. A third of this was "prime" farm land - the very best we had.

The need for high yields to offset rising production cost and the high cost of land has led to more specialized farming - which in turn has made the interest for soil conservation drop. In many places over the nation soil erosion is beyond all acceptable levels. On thousands of acres, annual losses of soil from cropland now exceed 25 tons per acre or five times the acceptable level.

Once heard an old man tell of when a newcomer passed by his house while he sat on his porch. The newcomer asked, "Mister how does the land lie around here?" The old man replied, "Well - I don't know about the land - a-lying; it's these real estate people that do the lying."

In a very real sense the land does not lie; it bears a record of what men write on it. In a larger sense a nation writes its record on the land and civilization writes its record on the land - a record that is easy to read by those who understand the simple language of the land.

If the land is destroyed, then our liberty of choice and action is gone, condemning this and further generations to needless privations and dangers.

This nation of ours is the greatest on earth. We have the best technology and information that produce the best and largest crops in the world. With continued conservation and care our country will always remain prosperous. God gave us this land and he expects us to take care of it. Take Soil Stewardship to the land.

For further information on Soil Stewardship, contact the Soil Conservation Office, Bay St. Louis, Phone: 467-5106.

News from the Governor's office

JACKSON--With the 1980 legislative session in its final week, Governor William Winter addressed a joint session of the legislature and signed several of his key proposals into law, including bills establishing an Energy and Transportation Board; a low-interest home financing program; and a measure granting counties the authority to take over abandoned railroad lines.

Acting on another important Winter-sponsored bill, the legislature voted overwhelmingly to abolish the Motor Vehicle Comptroller's Office and transfer the duties of that office to the State Tax Commission. The Tax Commission will be chaired by highly regarded fiscal and tax expert, Representative A. C. "Butch" Lambert of Tupelo beginning July 1.

In making his final message to the 1980 legislature, Winter praised lawmakers for tackling "a multitude of problems" in the initial session of his administration. The governor then outlined some of his goals for the 1981 session, including development of a highway construction program, changes in the minimum foundation education program, and the adoption of measures guaranteeing greater public access to public records.

Winter, who took office on January 22, hailed the establishment of a Board of Energy and Transportation as perhaps "the most significant act of this legislature." He said the law creating the planning agency may become a model for the country, "because it combines for the first time in a single agency, the responsibility for planning, development, and coordination in the areas of both energy and transportation."

"With proper administration," Winter continued, "which I assure you we will have, our state will in the near future be competitive with any other state in this country in terms of its ability to meet its energy and transportation needs."

Earlier in the session lawmakers approved Winter-backed measures to reorganize and streamline the Department of Banking, the Board of Health, and several other state agencies. In the area of federal-state programs which administer millions of dollars each year in people-oriented programs, the Winter administration has reduced the number of allocated employees by 25 percent with the result that additional money is freed for the delivery of needed services to the people of Mississippi.

Health Tip

From the American Medical Association

Diabetes Hits Many

How many of your friends and neighbors have diabetes? At least two in every hundred do - and one of them is not yet aware of it.

In early or mild diabetes the typical symptoms are not disturbing. Roughly half of the five-million diabetics in the U.S. have not learned they have the disease. Most of those with known diabetes have been able to control their body chemistry to live such normal lives that you wouldn't know they had the disease unless you were told.

Diabetes is characterized by the inability of the body tissues to utilize carbohydrates (sugar and starch). Proper utilization requires insulin, a hormone from cells in the pancreas. If insulin is insufficient or lacking, sugar accumulates in the blood. Sugar is accompanied by water and both are excreted from the body through the kidneys. Early warning signs of diabetes are excessive thirst and frequent urination.

Diabetes cannot be cured, but it can be controlled through medical management. More than half of all patients who develop diabetes later in life can satisfactorily manage the disease by diet alone. In obese persons insulin is less effective. Sometimes reducing to normal weight "cures" the diabetes. Patients with mild adult-onset diabetes that cannot be controlled by diet alone sometimes are helped by orally administered drugs that stimulate the pancreas to increase insulin production.

If diet alone is ineffective, insulin may be required to lower the blood sugar levels. Insulin is injected under the skin in carefully measured doses. Regular exercise also is important for diabetes. It helps prevent obesity and maintain muscle tone, and also helps use up sugar and thus reduce amount of insulin needed.

When blood sugar falls too low in a diabetic taking insulin, it is said to be an "insulin reaction." The very low blood sugar content will cause weakness, trembling, tiredness and drowsiness, double vision, slurred speech, sweating and extreme hunger. Sugar, fruit juice or candy taken immediately usually relieves the condition.

The cue to successful control of diabetes is early detection, understanding rather than fear, and a well-managed balance among food intake, physical activity, and insulin or oral medication, the American Medical Association reminds.

Furman sisters net state tennis crown

Our Lady's Academy tennis stars Leslie and Kim Furman of Diamondhead capped two years of outstanding play of OLA as they recently captured the Class B-BB Girls Doubles Championship during the Mississippi State Tennis Tournament in Jackson.

The girls defeated a team from St. Aloysius of Vicksburg and Natchez Cathedral of Natchez to get in the finals, where they met and defeated St. John's of Gulfport 6-2, 6-3.

The sisters have been playing doubles for OLA for two years, going undefeated for that period with the exception of a loss in the semi-finals of the state championship last year.

During the two year period, the sisters won the Gulf Coast Invitational Tournament twice and the District VIII Championship both years, thus qualifying for the state title.

Leslie is a senior at OLA, who will graduate this month. She is planning to attend Ole Miss.

Kim is a sophomore and will be playing with the team for two more years. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Furman of Diamondhead.

Linne Cabell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cabell of Bay St. Louis, won the District VIII Tournament in girls singles and advanced to state.

She won the first match against a highly regarded netter from St. Andrews of Jackson, but lost in the semi-finals in a match that lasted nearly two hours by the score of 7-5, 6-4.

Also attending the state match were David McDonnell and Rowe Crowder, who represented St. Stanislaus in the Class A-AA boys doubles.

They won their first two matches, but were defeated in the semi-finals by a strong Hattiesburg team in a hard-fought match.

David, a junior at SSC, is son of Captain and Mrs. John McDonnell of Diamondhead. Rowe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Crowder of Bay St. Louis, and will also return to the courts for SSC next year.

OLA's Rachel Gex and Jimmy Collins of SSC teamed together in the mixed doubles competition, winning all but two matches this season.

The duo could not play in district competition this year since the schools are not in the same district.

Rachel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gex of Diamondhead, and Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Collins of Bay St. Louis.

Gex will return as a senior next year and Collins will graduate and will attend Annapolis Naval Academy.

Federal court rules against liquor ads

Mississippi's prohibition on liquor advertisements is legal, says U. S. District Judge William Keady.

Ruling in Jackson on a newspaper's suit against the city of Oxford, Keady said liquor advertising is not protected by constitutional free speech guarantees because it promotes an activity that is illegal in a large part of the state.

Keady's ruling came in the limited lawsuit filed by Kathy Dunagin, a former editor of the campus newspaper at the University of Mississippi, the Daily Mississippian. The decision could have a major impact on a broader challenge in South Mississippi by a coalition of media interests including broadcasters and newspapers although that case involves additional issues.

Still pending in federal court is another, broader suit seeking to strike the state law banning liquor advertisements.

About five dozen state newspapers, television and radio stations have challenged the constitutionality of the statute. Gulf Publishing Co. of Gulfport, publisher of the Sun and Daily Herald, is among the plaintiffs.

Diamondhead News

Joe Matrangola's sudden death left Diamondhead people shocked and saddened. Joe was a Christian and a gentle man. We extend sympathy to Molly and the family because he will be sorely missed.

Sunday's Scramble ended in a tie win between Don Cooke-Mayeaux and Glenn and Wilma Smith.

Howard and Helen Mitchell placed second. The Fellman's and the Lords tied for third. The Plugfelders, Fuchs and Bakers tied for fourth.

Paul Vegas was down in the ditch helping repair a water main break. Ray Whelan observed: "That's the kind of project manager we need, and have!"

George and Marion Kollasch hosted a "get acquainted" meeting for the fourth fairway dwellers. Guenther and Brigitte Wittich, Jack and Laverne Evans, Martin and Joan Finerty and Sid and Eura Watson. The Kollasch home and grounds combine to create a showplace.

Geoff Morgan, Cem Morgan, Clarence Morgan, Jimmy Bell, John Love, Hugh Potts Jr., and Reggie Smithson were the Kosciusko contingent to the Johnny Vaughn tourney when 144 players toured the tough Diamondhead Pine and Magnolia courses.

Wednesday's DMGA tourney had a full field and fine weather. Andy Anderson, Joe Stackhouse, Bob McBee and Bob Schutt were the winning foursome. Andy Anderson took first individual honors.

Ann Leshin and Saul Rubin tied for third. Tommy Rawls won fifth place. There will be a nine hole scramble at 5:00 each Friday and the DMGA's club championship will be held on May 17-18. Jinky Underwood won the regular Friday Ladies' Tennis tournament. Wally Cox finished second and then our team took on Plantations Pines and lost the match but had a fine lunch reports Hilda Bourg.

Players were: Mary McDonnell, Sara Standridge, Hilda Bourg, Susan Plessala, Trish Shaper, Marilyn Cucci, Gail Seidensticker, Jinky Underwood, Julie Craft and Judy Gamewell.

Mary Hoppert reports that Woody Waggoner and Dick Merritt won the Mississippi Senior's Tourney followed by Tom Hickman and Andy Pliney. Tom and Betty Hickman won their flight in the Husband and wife match.

The Diamondhead Riding Club's horse show was an outstanding success with 320 entries. Maria Lott, Denise Bourg, Yoana Loup, Billie LeBlanc, Jennie Eckert and Laurie Laughlin showed from Diamondhead.

Bob Bond conducted the monthly meeting of the DVFD and Herb Garner gave the Secretary's report. Jim reported an excellent financial condition. Any checks for the Joe Matrangola Memorial should be made out to the DVFD and marked Matrangola Fund.

Eva and Bob Bond had a gathering of some of their friends at their lovely home—a good time was had by all.

Celestine and Clarence Wallace held their annual Derby Party as they can so efficiently run such a show, really a great party.

Wilma and Glenn Smith have returned home after a two week visit to their old home State of Oklahoma. Betty and Paul Cutler have moved into their palatial new home selling their Condo in Kona to the Glenn Lords. Rusty will remain here, while his parents Betty and Glenn will return to their home State of Connecticut, however, they hope to join us often here at Diamondhead, they love our golf course.

Angie and Tom Golding, Connie and Scott Warfield joined forces during the Mississippi Seniors Golf

Gournament to entertain some of their out of town friends and also some of their Diamondhead friends in the Goldings' new home.

Kat and Al Doussan have returned after a nice visit with their daughter and her husband and two grandchildren, the Paulsons, who have just moved to Houston from Aberdeen, Scotland.

Jean and Jim Diltz are returning to Ellison Bay, Wisconsin for the summer months, as they usually do, but they hope to sell everything and move here for GOOD!

Gloria and Harold Fuchs (Dr) have moved into their most attractive home on the first fairway.

Diocesan fund drive underway

After exceeding its 1979 goal by $57,000, the Biloxi diocese began its second Catholic Sharing Appeal fund drive with key leader meetings last week.

This year's goal of $450,000, is the same as last year. General chairman George Sliman of Ocean Springs told pastors and lay leaders the total collected in the 1979 appeal was $507,000.

Of that, $120,000 was returned to the parishes as their participation share. This is 23.7 percent of the total, Sliman said.

Bishop Howze said funds received by the diocese were translated into essential services including Catholic Social Services, seminarians, support mission parishes, priests' retirement and the Christian Life Center planning.

Catholic Social Services, largest recipient of diocesan funds, ministered to approximately 3,850 people in 1979 through a variety of programs including adoption, foster care, emergency assistance, marriage preparation, Vietnamese resettlement and family life. Parish workers for this year's appeal will receive assignments and begin solicitation this week.

State Garden Clubs offer early summer tips

By MRS. C.H. WOOD
Horticulture Chm.
MAY GARDEN GUIDE:
May is the month that spring gives way to the warm weather of early summer.

For a colorful display of chrysanthemums this fall, divide old clumps, saving the best ones for replanting or make cuttings of your favorite varieties and root them in a mixture of equal parts of sand and peat. Cover the cutting box with plastic, and place in the shade for several days to prevent wilting. Keep moist at all times.

Divide and plant dahlia tubers this month and in early June. Cut apart with a sharp knife, so that each sprout has a tuber attached to it. Select a site that has rich, fertile soil, drains well, and gets at least six hours of sunlight each day. Plant tubers about 18 inches apart, 5 inches deep with the bud pointing upward. Place a stake beside the tuber at planting time. Mulch dahlias to conserve moisture. Feed each plant ever three or four weeks with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of complete fertilizer such as 5-10-10.

Finish planting container-grown ornamentals, such as azaleas and gardenias. Water ever few days during first month in the ground; then begin a regular fertilization program.

To promote good growth, a light application of nitrogen is needed now on lawns of warm season grasses such as Bermuda, centipede, St. Augustine and zoysia. Water thoroughly after applying fertilizer. It is not too late to start new lawns of warm-season grasses. Treat chinch bugs and grubs in grasses with an insecticide such as Diazinon or Aspon. Follow directions on container.

Mulch the rose bed if it hasn't been done. Use 2 to 4 inches of pine straw or wood chips. Water as needed, soaking the soil each time. A soaker hose is best for water application. Continue the weekly applications of an insecticide-fungicide to control aphids, blackspot, mildew, trips and other problems. Feed plants monthly with about $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of 8-8-8 fertilizer per bush. Prune climbing roses after they have finished blooming.

Clumps of canas should be divided every three or four years. Carefully lift each clump of roots with a spading fork and shake off soil. Cut healthy clumps of roots into sections, with at least one leaf on each small section. Plant in a sunny spot in well prepared soil to which organic matter and super-phosphate has been added. Set 5 or 6 inches deep and 15 inches apart. Water thoroughly. Sow seeds of coleus, cosmos, marigold, morning glory, portulaca and zinnias directly into the soil where they are to grow.

Pinch back summer annuals to make bushier plants. Also, pinch back perennials such as coleus, geraniums and impatiens.

A mulch of pine straw or compost applied now to flowerbeds and shrubbery will help conserve moisture and reduce weeds.

If you haven't moved houseplants outdoors for the summer, do so now. Treat infested plants with malathion.

Sow seeds of cantaloupes, carrots, corn, lima beans, okra and squash. Also transplant tomatoes, eggplants and peppers.

Pass Garden Club elects Schoenburg

To conclude its 1979-80 activities, the Pass Christian Garden Club met at the Pass Christian Golf Club for a luncheon, prepared by the hostesses for the day, Mrs. O.B. Trepagnier and Mrs. John Audley, assisted by Mrs. Frank Ruppel, Mrs. Lewis Levy, Mrs. R.T. Caire, and Mrs. James Williams.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. A. Harriman Morgan, acting for Mrs. Rosamond Wallace, president, requested brief reports from committee chairmen covering their accomplishments during the year.

Much satisfaction was expressed with achievements in every phase of Club activities, but particularly pleasing were the reports of the obviously long, productive hours of dedicated labor involved in plantings and improved landscaping at the high school, the Library-City Hall areas, and the Wild Flower Garden.

The cooperation extended to the Club members by the students and faculty at the school was given appreciative mention.

Since this is an on-going endeavor, it is hoped that such help will be continued.

The meeting closed with the installation ritual of new officers for the year 1980-81: Mrs. Pope Schoenburg, president; Mrs. A. Harriman Morgan, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Campbell, second vice president; Mrs. J. Randolph Buck, treasurer; Mrs. R.J. Caire, recording secretary; Mrs. C.B. Kennedy, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Donald Newcomb, Historian; and Mrs. William Curren, parliamentarian.

There's an Answer!

Give up and forget?

Q. I had to raise 7 children by myself after my husband left me. I'm only 47 and would like someone for company and even get married again someday if possible. But I have met a good many men who sometimes say that they love me and then when I get to loving them they just leave, and I never see them again. Is there no hope for me? What do you think I should look for in a man that I can tell if he is telling the truth? Or should I just give up and forget about all men?

A. The fact that men stop seeing you may indicate that you push it too hard. Men often shy off when they sense aggressiveness. Your best policy is to be a happy, normal person, fun to be with. Try to be an inspiring individual and always upright in your actions. Be this way for its own sake and not to attract men. Result—the right man will come along. Believe he is out there waiting for such a fine woman as yourself and he will find you.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet, Enthusiasm!, which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 590, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Dead but not buried

Q. I recently moved from Nebraska to Texas and got married. All is not well. I live with a stranger and his 31-year-old retarded daughter. He never admits she is. This is his first wife's home, and I've never unpacked as there is no room for my things. I'm depressed and don't know where to turn. I can't compete with a dead wife. I sold my mobile home and quit my job for this. All I do is clean and cook. I feel dead but not buried. Any advice?

A. We rather get the impression you are too docile. When you married this man you became his wife, his partner, and this is your home as well as his. If you find no room for your things, throw stuff out and make room. Don't be haunted by the deceased wife. You are the wife in that home now. So be just that. And don't let the daughter get under your skin. Try to love her, and by all means take charge of your home and make it a happy one.

Won't be a money tree

Q. My son-in-law has brainwashed my daughter and grandchildren against me. Things were fine as long as they needed me as a babysitter. After 30 years of teaching I'm retired involuntarily because of emphysema. Medication caused the cataracts in my eyes to grow rapidly. I had a lens implant that hasn't worked out, so I can't see very well. At 64 years of age I'm practically helpless and treated very shabbily by my family. I fought back for a while but I've given up. But I'm no longer going to be a money tree they can shake, shake, shake. Why is it a universal problem about mothers-in-law?

A. Everyone must conserve personal resources against the uncertainties of life. If you seem unable to enjoy good relations with your family, it is unwise to embitter yourself by animosity. To get along with others, especially within the family, avoid situations which tend to create resentment and be as considerate as possible about people's motives. Try beaming thoughts of love toward each member of your family and pray for them. Do this every day and you may find that the mother-in-law problem has eased up and it hasn't cost you anything.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

"Mother holds the key to the soul of the child"

Some wrote, "God could not be everywhere, therefore he made mothers;" "The word 'Mother' is a sacred word;" and "There is, in all this cold and hollow world, no fount of deep, strong, deathless love, save that within a mother's heart."

Strickland Gillilan wrote this beautiful poem.

I had a mother who read to me
Sagas of pirates who scoured
the sea, Cutlasses clinched in their yellow teeth.
"Blackbirds" stowed in the hold beneath.

"I had a mother who read me
lays Of ancient, and gallant, and golden days;
Stories of Marmion and Ivanhoe, Which every boy has a right to know.

"I had a mother who read me
tales
Of Gelfert, the hound, of the hills of Wales,
True to his trust till his tragic death, Faithfulness blent with his final breath.

"I had a mother who read me
the things That wholesome life to the boy heart brings—Stories that stir with an upward touch,
Oh, that each mother of boys are such!

"You may have tangible wealth untold;
Caskets of jewels and coffers of gold.
Richer than I you can never be

I had a mother who read to me."

McCauley wrote these imprishable lines:

"Children Look in those eyes, listen to that dear voice, notice the feeling of even a single touch that is bestowed upon you by that gentle hand.
Make much of it while you yet have that most precious of all good gifts—a loving mother."

"Read the unfathomable love of those eyes; the kind anxiety off that tone and look, however slight your pain. In after life you may have friends, but never will you have again the inexpressible love and gentleness lavished upon you, which none but a mother bestows."

Many great poets, and writers, have written of MOTHER. Joaquin Miller,
the great western poet wrote:
"The bravest battle that ever was fought;
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
It was fought by the mothers of men."

The designation of days for this and that has been, as the old saying is; run into the ground. But Mother's Day is different, and it is most appropriate that a day has been set aside to honor MOTHER.
Mother's Day is the most generally observed of all the special days.

Alice Allen wrote:
"Her heart is like her garden,
Old fashioned, quaint and sweet,
With here a wealth of blossoms,
And there a still retreat.
Sweet violets are hiding—
We know, as we pass by,
And lilies, pure as angel thoughts,
Are opening somewhere night.

"Forget-me-nots there linger,
To full protection brought,
And there bloom purple panies
In many a tender thought.
There love's own roses
bloom,
As from enchanted ground,
And lavish perfume exults
The whole glad year around.

"And in that quiet garden—
The garden of her heart—
Songbirds are always singing
Their songs of cheer apart.
"And from it floats forever
O'ercoming sin and strife,
Sweet as the breath of roses blown,
The fragrance of her life."
We honor ourselves when we honor old people, especially when we honor our parents.

Whatever we are, we owe, largely to our mothers. The mother holds the key to the soul of the child; it is the mother who stamps the coin of character on the boy or girl; then, it is most fitting that we crown her queen on this special occasion. The word mother, is a becoming synonym for loyalty and unselfishness. Mother's labor, for you, is always a labor of love.

Rose Gorenbein wrote:

"I always love to see the look Upon a mother's face,
When she is sewing buttons on
With all a mother's grace.
"Each little stitch she sews
for you,
Each stitch is a delight;
I love to look upon her face
Because it is so bright.
"There's nothing like a mother's face
To look upon and see
When she is sewing buttons on
Or makes a dress for me."
No man can ever repay his mother for what she has done for him, and will do for him.
When everyone else turns a man down, his mother remains loyal.

Washington Irving said: "A father may turn his back on a child; brothers and sisters may become inveterate enemies; husbands may desert their wives and wives their husbands. But a mother's love endures through all; in good repute, in bad repute, in the face of all the world's condemnation, a mother still loves on, and still hopes that her child may turn from his evil ways and repent; still she remembers the infant smiles that once filled her bosom with rejoice, the merry laugh, the joyful shout of his childhood, the opening promise of his youth; and she can never be brought to think him all unworthy."

Margaret Widdemer wrote in memory of her mother:
"She always cleaned, to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate.
"And though we watched her tenderly
Who took such foolish care,
The long road home would seem more safe
Because she waited there.
"Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never could forget,
And so I think that wherever she is
She must be watching yet.
"Watching till we come home to her.

"My friends, be yours a life of toil;
Or undiluted joy,
You can learn a wholesome lesson
From that small, untutored boy.
Don't aim to be an earthly saint,
With eyes fixed on a star;
Just try to be the fellow that Your mother thinks you are.
If you can't visit your mother on her day, then be sure to write her. One person wrote his mother this short poem on Mother's Day:
You are the sun that lights the day
And all the stars at night.
You keep my faith and loyalty
And courage ever bright.

Park Avenue, New York,

Colors are creeping into our living rooms. You may have noticed a much brighter trend in decorating fabrics lately, and according to designers and manufacturers, colors are going to be stronger and darker, than ever. No more pastels and rainbows; teal reds, dark blues and strong greens are showing up.

What this does for us is to give us a lot of leeway in our decorating. It might seem a little shocking at first to see red walls, in the living room or bright green on the sofa, but they will give rooms a much stronger, definitive look. And one you'll get used to easily.

In hardwoods, furniture designers are going for intricate veneer work and inlays of exotic woods, such as curly maples, or tiger walnuts, to make their design point. These beautiful finishes will also give stronger statements in a room than ever before. And the finishes will be warmer and darker to go with the purity of the jewel-like colors used in the fabrics.

The beauty of these trends is that they can be used with the furniture you already have. A room can be painted, furniture can be refinished. If it's hardwood, that is. Hardwood furniture can be changed as often as you wish, or it can be colored or stained—or lacquered.

All without damage to the piece.

And hardwoods will blend in with any of the new colors you want to use, no matter how strong they are. They enhance and improve the look of any room, and are practically indestructible.
That makes hardwood a good investment, too.

So when the energy crunch keeps you home a bit more than before, and you want to make some changes in your rooms, think colors. Think bright beautiful colors and think hardwood to go with them.
If variety is the spice of our lives, hardwood is the key herb. And what wonderful flavors are available these days!

So this is just to let you know
If words can make it clear,
You are my one and only one,
You are my Mother Dear!
